

TETRIS (answer) by Mike Marcelais

The puzzle is solved by playing a game of Tetris. The pieces you are given fall down like standard pieces and you have to use them to form sentences. No pieces require rotating or sliding. The video shows how the pieces fall.

As each row completes, it spells out the instructions: "Play Tetris. Clear the rows." and then segues into the English translation of the video game Zero Wing (of "All your base" fame).

When all pieces have been placed, the remaining letters spell out "Remember to contact Puzzle Central before visiting here," and the blocks of the remaining letters visually spell out 36/1361.

Submitting 36/1361 to the answer system tells you that you should send a team member to that conference room that knows how to play Tetris. When they arrive, they find a computer running a Tetris game. Like in the puzzle, each Tetris square contains a letter. (These letters are randomly assigned.) As the player clears rows, the letters in that row reveal themselves in a clue message on the side of the board. (If the letter on the Tetris piece does not appear hidden in the clue, then a space or other punctuation mark is given.) The game ends when the entire message is revealed or the Tetris game is lost.

The clued message reads “This movie features a title character who is afraid of objects falling from the sky.” The answer is CHICKEN LITTLE?
